NEAT CLUB ROOMS ATTACHED

A vivacious woman's fun can frequently speak in more eloquent language than any known to the tongue of man. It can invite or repel, sigh or smile, be meek or haughty, tear a passion to tatters or humbly seek forgiveness. It can also tell the story of health. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease in a womanly way sits in sorrow and dejection while her healthy sisters enjoy themselves. She may be naturally beautiful, naturally attractive, naturally interesting and animated and witty, but the demon of ill-health is gnawing at the very vitals of her womanly nature, and she soon becomes a withered wall flower in company with her brighter and more healthy sisters. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in womanhood and motherhood. It tones and builds up the shattered nerves. It restores the glow of health to the pallid cheek. It gives springiness and trip to the carriage. It makes the eyes sparkle with returning vivacity. It imparts animation to the mien and gestures. The fact that long lay listless and idle in the lap of an invalid again speaks the eloquent language of a healthy, happy woman. Thousands of women have testified to the marvelous merits of this wonderful medicine.

"For several years I suffered with prolapsus of the uterus," writes Miss A. Lee Schuster, of Box 11, Rodney, Jefferson Co., Miss. "Our family physician treated me for kidney trouble, and everything else but the right thing. I grew worse and worse. My body was emaciated, hands and feet clammy and cold, stomach weak with great palpitation of the heart. I would suffer with nausea all night. I began taking your Favorite Prescription and I began to improve right away. I have taken three bottles and now I am very nearly well and am very happy and thankful to you."

Keep your head up and your bowels open. The "Golden Medical Discovery" will put steel in your backbone, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation.

The Spaniel at His Best.

To see the spaniel at his best he should be taken to the haunts of the waterfowl. In the salt marshes, the lakes and streams of the east, and in the prairie sloughs of the west, he is indeed a great little dog. His stumpy legs may be poor performers on dry ground, but they are very efficient when it comes to swimming. The dog, too, is a hardy fellow, ready to face any weather and cold water whenever asked. As a retriever from water he is most desirable, while his intelligence and compact form make him the best of dogs for the ducking shift. Of course the Irish water spaniel is excluded from all references to short legs and clumsiness. A good specimen of this dog appears to be quite long legged.

The chief value of the Irish spaniel to the sportsman is as a retriever. He is a worthy rival of the famous dog of the Chesapeake, and no weather is too severe, while few tasks are too difficult, for him. He is game to the core, a very powerful, magnificent swimmer, and to all intents a natural retriever. His oily coat can bid defiance to cold water, while a vigorous shake appears to at once dry it. He is as hardy as a badger. He is a most intelligent and willing worker, and will show to the greatest advantage under conditions which would baffle almost any other retriever from water.—Outing.

Riding on Turtles' Backs.

Having had considerable experience in turtle catching, I know a swimmer can frequently approach a sleeping turtle from behind and leap on its back before it awakes. The swimmer's first impulse is to dive, but if its rider knows his business he can instantly bring it to a standstill by forcing his fingers into its horny eyes, when it at once floats motionless on the surface. In the case of a midshipman whom I know of he got on a turtle's back and enjoyed a ten minutes' ride, sometimes on the surface of the water, sometimes under, before he brought the animal to a standstill.

Three things are certain—first, the ability of a man to get on a sleeping turtle's back; second, by sitting far back on its shell to keep it near the surface; third, to instantly stop its career by reducing it to blindness. Having regard to the brevity and simplicity of Rougemont's account, I can quite well believe that lonely man on his coral sand bank, with all his instincts preternaturally sharpened, did actually ride and guide the turtle as he has stated.—Admiral Moreby in London Chronicle.

"NO BOXES SOLD HERE."

A Sign Displayed in Shops Which Guard Carefully Their Reputations.

"No Boxes Sold Here" is the sign that hangs in one of the principal jewelry establishments in the city. The sign made its appearance after the shopping of one Christmas season. But there is no time of the year in which the demand for boxes is quite discontinued, and the sign serves its purpose always.

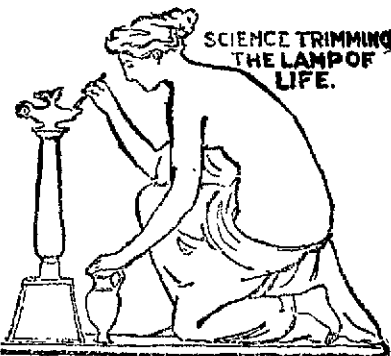

The demand for boxes was prompted by the amiable desire to deceive some friend or relative into the belief that the article presented to him came from the best establishment in the city. Similar attempts are made at the well known glass and china shops, at one of the well known French confectioners and at all of the establishments which have made a reputation in some particular field.

Nearly all of these answer such applications with the words of the sign, "No Boxes Sold Here," but there are some few which sell them as regularly as they do other objects of merchandise and are quite indifferent to what becomes of them so long as they get their rather high prices for the empty boxes bearing the name of the firm. Similar indifference is shown by a well known English pickle factory, which allows its labels to be sold here and pasted over any sort of stuff that the purchaser of them happens to concoct.—New York Sun.

SENATOR STEWART'S DENIAL.

A few days ago the JOURNAL published a statement to the effect that it had reason to believe that Senator Stewart had not furnished Mr. Wren the documents which that gentleman used against his opponent, Mr. Newlands, during the last campaign. It was indited by a writer for the JOURNAL, who considered it only fair to Senator Stewart to publish such denial, as the interview between the editor of the Silver State and Mr. Newlands had appeared in these columns and the writer presuming that Mr. Newlands was mistaken in making the charge, assumed the responsibility, the proprietors of the JOURNAL knowing nothing about the article until it was published in these columns. That the writer was "too previous" in his conclusion, the following, for which the JOURNAL is responsible, will most conclusively prove:

On July 28, 1898, the following paragraph appeared in this paper:

"Francis G. Newlands, the gallant leader of the American forces that captured Hawaii for the United States by a peaceable contest with the opposition in the United States Congress, arrived yesterday morning at his home in Reno, looking as though he is ready and willing to enter a contest in Nevada that may place him in a position to do more and better work for his country than hitherto he has had opportunity to do."

The paragraph was written by the junior, now senior, proprietor of the JOURNAL. A couple of days afterwards, Mr. Stewart and his secretary, Mr. Kappler, called at the JOURNAL office. The Senator was greatly excited and among other things said: "I have come back to be re-elected; I am going to be re-elected, and by — I can't be beaten."

During his tirade the Senator acted like a wild man, flourishing his arms like a windmill, and giving a very fair imitation of an Indian war dance on the office floor. Presuming that the Senator's anger was caused by the paragraph above quoted about Mr. Newlands, (although no mention had been made of it) the Junior quietly remarked: "Why, Senator, you don't suppose that I am against you, I hope." After that, the old gentleman became more amiable, and his conversation and manner assumed a more peaceful tone. General matters were discussed until Mr. Newland's name was accidentally mentioned, when Stewart again became excited and exclaimed: "I have brought that fellow's record with me from Washington, and I intend to show him up in the campaign." Then turning to Mr. Kappler he said: "You have it, haven't you?" Mr. Kappler answered in the affirmative and the subject was dropped.

On the next day the following appeared in the JOURNAL:

"Senator and Mrs. Stewart arrived in Reno yesterday morning on their way to their home in Carson. The Senator called at the JOURNAL office and made himself interesting by detailing matters that will be given out to the people for their information during the coming campaign. He claims that he should be and will be returned to the United States Senate, to continue his work on financial questions that are becoming more pronounced against the masses and their interests continually. The Senator looks as a British grenadier said of Napoleon when he entered St. Helena—like he had half a dozen good campaigns in him yet."

This, as the other, was written by the JOURNAL's Junior, the Senior being in Carson. It was written under the supposition that the "interesting matter for the information of the people" referred to the record of Mr. Newlands which he had brought from Washington.

These are the facts, and we leave it to our readers to judge whether Senator Stewart tells the truth when he disclaims any connection with the documents used by Mr. Wren. Perhaps one of them was procured by some other person, and probably Stewart did not hand "the record of Newlands" personally to the latter's opponent, but that he brought the most of those that were so used there can be no shadow of doubt.

The JOURNAL commits no breach of confidence in making the above disclosures. It was no confidential interview, nor was it so considered on either side. The Senator's voice could be heard a block away, and the conversation occurred in the JOURNAL's present editorial room, which connects with the compositors' room, the door between them being open, so that all of the employees, as well as any outsiders who happened to be there, could not help hearing all that was said on both sides.

LAST Monday, and for the first time in history, a regiment of American soldiers bearing aloft the Stars and Stripes marched through the streets of Havana. They thus sealed for all time the question of Spanish domination, cruelty and misgovernment in that island territory, now dedicated to freedom and tolerance.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE offered Admiral Dewey $5000 for a short contribution. His response was characteristic of the man. He sent the following cablegram to the editor of McClure's: "Thanks, I am too busy."

"If there be any at this late day who are in doubt that Dewey is a name to conjure with," says the New York Tribune, "here is the latest fact they must explain away. In the rooms of the Hardware Club, on the top floor of the Postal Telegraph Building, hangs a picture of the redoubtable Vermont admiral. It is the only article in the room that was not destroyed or damaged by the fire on Sunday night. The window frames, the furniture, the hangings and the other pictures all suffered severely, but Admiral Dewey's picture is still as clean and fresh as on the day it was hung."

The Appeal occasionally has a lucid interval. It copies approvingly the JOURNAL's article declaring that the silver fight in 1900 must and will be made under the Democratic banner, and adds the following:

We agree with the JOURNAL that such a course would give the State to silver with 75 per cent of the popular vote. The loss of silver Republicans would not be worth counting.

The ashes of Columbus are now on their way to Spain. Fate was unkind to Columbus when she made Spain the agency through which he accomplished his great discovery. In view of his other merits, however, America will try to forget that he discovered Spain.

An Interesting Case.

All people are interested in a new case that has recently cropped up in Reno, and they have good reason for being so. This case contains many striking features. It is Mr. F. P. Dunn's show case on Virginia street, down by the iron bridge. It is very beautiful, his new window display, of all that is modern in photography. There one may see large opal types, small autotypes and lovely porcelains. Just think! Artistic photographs on genuine porcelain. And what do you think of this? He makes photographs on handkerchiefs—silk handkerchiefs. What more appropriate present could be imagined than one of these with your photo on it?

Carlyle Silences a Watchman.

After several visits in Scotland during the summer of 1888, Carlyle went home again to Scotchbrig, writes Charles T. Copeland in The Atlantic. On his return thence he spent a few days in Manchester with Mrs. Hanning. "He had been put to sleep in an old bed, which he remembered in his father's house." "I was just closing my senses in sweet oblivion," wrote he, "when the watchman, with a voice like the deepest groan of the highland bagpipe or what an ostrich comoralk might utter, groaned out 'Groo-o-o-o!' close under me and set me all in a gallop again. 'Groo-o-o-o!' for there was no articulate announcement at all in it, that I could gather. 'Groo-o-o-o!' repeated again and again at various distances, dying out and then growing loud again for an hour or more.

"I grew impatient, bolted out of bed, flung up the window. 'Groo-o-o-o!' There he was, advancing, lantern in hand, a few yards off me. 'Can't you give up that noise?' I hastily addressed him. 'You are keeping a person awake. What good is it to go howling and groaning all night and deprive people of their sleep?' He ceased from that time—at least I heard no more of him. No watchman, I think, has been more astonished for some time back."

English Children and Negroes.

The negro is not so well known as one might expect, considering that geography is widely and often excellently taught in our primary schools. The ideas most frequently expressed concerning him are that he is black and a foreigner.

Here are some of the definitions: "A black man who lives in India." "A dark man who comes from America." "A negro is a slave we read of them in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'" "A gentleman who lives in a foreign country."

The country children are even more lively in their descriptions than the town children: "A negro is a foreign man with black skin all over him with thick lips and curly black hair he goes naked."

"A negro is a man and they live in a very hot country and they have little but to live in." "A negro is a black man who acts in a circus."

"A negro is a man whose skin is always black, they are strong and they live in huts, and do not wear clothes and they shoot with a bow." "A negro is a man who eats missionaries." The Sunday school missionary stories and the traveling circus color the village children's ideas on negroes.—National Review.

Glycerin and Foreordination.

A glycerin man in conversation with a reporter the other day said that the majority of those who are engaged in the business of shooting wells believe in foreordination. "I think that a man will not dig till his time comes," he said. "A man is liable to die at any calling, no matter how safe it may be considered. He will pass through all kinds of dangers and never sustain the slightest injury. Then he is knocked out of existence when he least expects it. 'Glycerin men have to be quite nervy, but there is not one of them who does not feel that he is in no great danger. They think they will live out their allotted time and will not be blown up until the predestined event is due. We are handling death every day and know it, but by the exercise of caution and common sense there are but few of us comparatively that are killed. The railroad men are much more liable to accidental death than glycerin men are."—Bradford (Pa.) Era.

Heat and Fuel Savers.

How long are you going to "get along" with that old cookstove that burns more fuel than a furnace and heats the outdoors more than does the oven?

A very little money will buy one of our cookstoves—you'll save the price in fuel in one season. It will keep the heat where it ought to be, and cook your food as it ought to be cooked. Come in and examine them.

Drinking Records.

Mr. Platt—He doesn't take Delta half as long to wash the dishes as it used to.

Mrs. Flatt (wearily)—There isn't half as many now.

Crowded Out.

When first they wed she gives him half the clothes hooks for his share.

But it isn't long
